SUANJAYA KENCUT

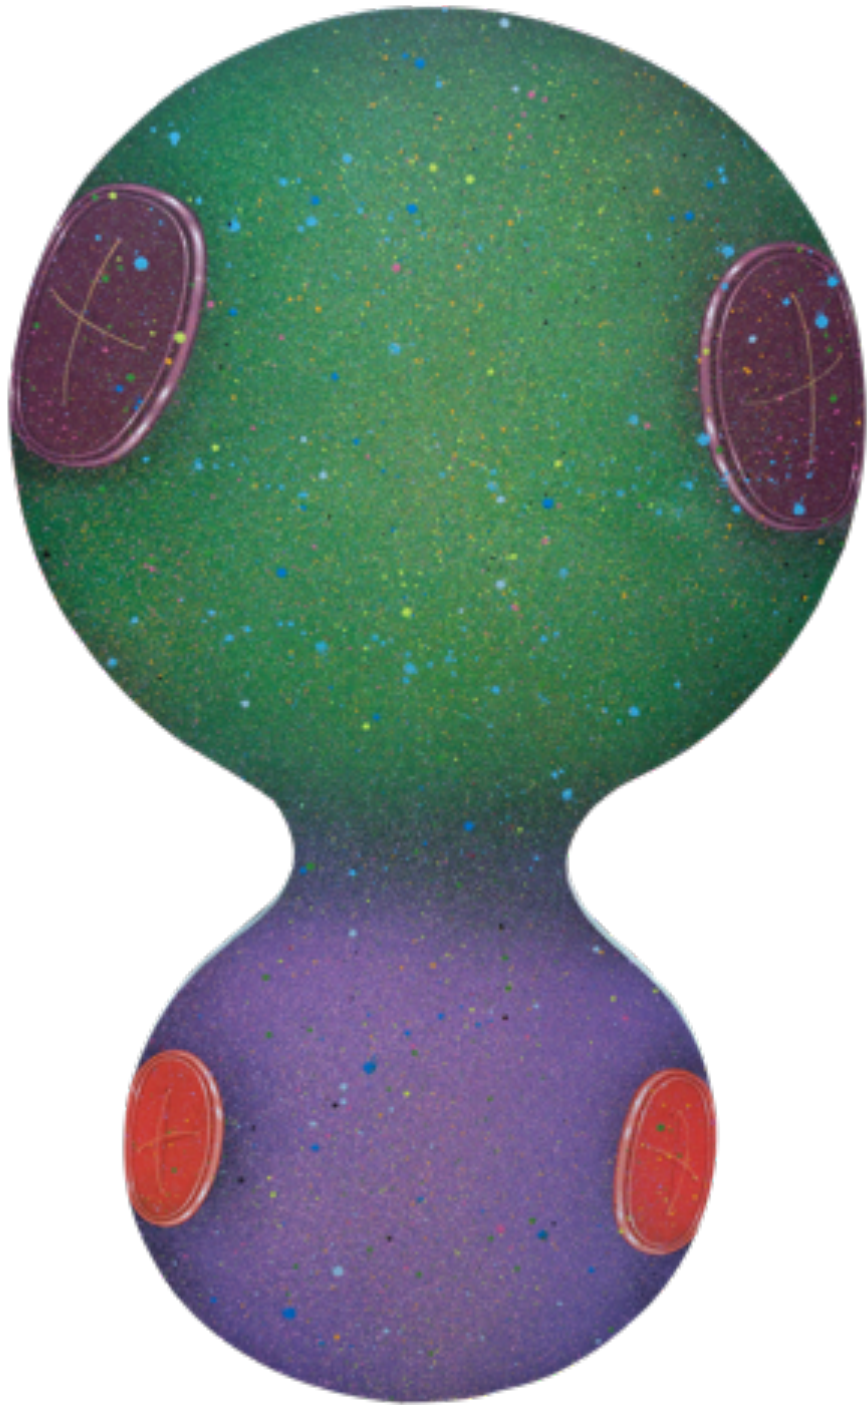

The concept of the works shown is rooted in the Hindu concept which likens the soul or Suksma Sarira to a small spark of God and the human body, known as Raga Sarira, to be a mini version of the universe or the Macrocosm. All the basic elements that exist in the universe, as well as reflections in the human body such as the Earth element (Pertiwi), the water element (Apah), the air element (Bayu), the warm element (Teja), and the space element (Akasa). This concept is known as Panca Maha Bhuta, or the main constituent elements of the universe and the human body.

Kencut presents the work of "A Thousand Star- Series" which displays 2 different close-up faces stacked into 1 and seems like the Infinity symbol, with a spray paint technique which is another exploration technique from his work.

Adopting a pointillist style, the figures appear borderless. He likens this visual experience to gazing at a sea of stars, and each point represents an element of the vast universe and unlimited. Kencut symbolizes the universe is there in every human being.

RIZAL HASAN

The series of my latest paintings are talking about Indonesian traditional myths, which are gharuda, barong, macan and also naga. The myth that is deeply rooted in our nation and also sometimes in our philosophy of life. From traditional myth I want to adopt it into my latest paintings as the symbols of courage, truth and goodness.

FAJAR AMALI

"Ephemeral creates beauty meaning, because something is temporary, make it valuable."

The "BROKEN PAINTINGS" - Series:

This series is a representative of ancient paintings from the ruins of a bygone era and is intended to evoke like a lapidarium - a collection of stone works such as sculptures, sarcophagi, etc., which are often displayed at the excavation site.

The present works were made by hand painting the canvas and framed with broken pieces of wooden boards.
